To our student organization community:

These policy changes will impact all of us, from sports clubs to arts organizations, from the smallest of us to the largest of us. I am sure that each of you is feeling a host of emotions; be it frustration, confusion or fear, and we want you to know that we are here - right with you. Though these changes, and the timing of all of this, is far from ideal, we are confident that as a Yellow Jacket family we will be able to create the next solution to empower all student organizations to the fullest.

But honestly? Josh and I are just as tired as you are. The changes in some ways have not made it easier to be a student organization, and that is the point of both of our jobs. So we are doing everything we can to make the financial, chartering, and marketing processes simpler for you and your organizations. And we are not going to stop striving to make being a student organization as easy breezy Covergirl as possible until the end of our terms. We ask that you embark on this unexpected journey with us, as we navigate the changes presented before us and find our way to a new normal flow.

On this journey, whenever you have a question, concern, or even suggestion, we implore that you reach out to us. Via Slack, email, or cell phone, Josh and I are committed to not only hearing out the issues that you face and answer any question you may have, but also to doing everything in our power to fix those issues. We entered into our respective positions because of the love that we hold for RSOs. You are what makes the college experience unforgettable for so many students and the communities here at Georgia Tech vibrant. We are going to support you as much as possible to do that with all ease possible.

So, thank you for taking the time to visit this website. Thank you for your patience and understanding as we work to make things clearer and easier. We have spent countless hours putting this together, to try and ensure that it could be as easy a transition as possible, but we know that we may have missed something or not seeing it from your perspective. We ask you to reach out with suggestions and feedback about what we can do better. We both hope that the silver lining of these changes will be an improvement in the way all student organizations have access to resources and the way in which SGA is able to better support student organizations for years to come.

Thank you for your passion and leadership.

With all sincerity,

Joyce Karanouh-Schuler | Joint Vice President of Campus Organizations of SGA

Josh Eastwood | Joint Vice President of Finance of SGA
